The 4th Regiment Confederate Infantry (also known as the 1st Regiment Alabama, Tennessee, and Mississippi Infantry) was formed about December 9, 1861 with ten companies; four from Alabama, two from Mississippi, and four from Tennessee. It was captured at Island No. 10, April 8, 1862, and after exchange in September, 1862, the companies were reorganized and transferred to other commands. Companies A, G, H, and K became (2d) Companies I, A, C, and D, respectively of the 42d Regiment Tennessee Infantry, and Companies B, C, D, E, F, and I became Companies C, G, E, D, F,

Figure 10 shows the results of the regression analysis. The dependent variable is the number of days of absence due to illness. The independent variables are age, sex, education, income, and health status. The results show that older workers have fewer days of absence due to illness, while women have more days of absence. Education and income also have significant effects on the number of days of absence.

*This company subsequently became Company E, 4th Regiment Confederate Infantry.

The 4th Regiment Confederate Infantry (also known as the 1st Regiment Alabama, Tennessee, and Mississippi Infantry) was formed about December 9, 1861, with ten companies: four from Alabama, two from Mississippi, and four from Tennessee. It was captured at Island No. 10, April 4, 1862, and after exchange in September, 1862, the companies were reorganized and transferred to other commands. Companies A, C, H, and K became (3d) Companies I, A, C, and D, respectively, of the 42d Regiment Tennessee Infantry, and Companies B, C, D, E, F, and G became Companies C, G, E, D, F, and H, respectively, of the 56th Regiment Alabama Infantry.
